Dear French Wine Scholar Candidate,

Congratulations! You have successfully passed the French Wine Scholar examination with a score of 86.

Scholar: a learned person (especially in the humanities); someone who by long study has gained mastery in one or more disciplines. Courtesy of wordnet.princeton.edu

The exam was difficult and we are pleased to acknowledge your achievement by conferring to you the title of French Wine Scholar. Be sure to change your business cards to incorporate the FWS post-nominal into your professional signature! With only a 50-60% pass rate, you have distinguished yourself amongst your peers. You have a right to be proud.

If you are not already a member of the French Wine Society. Please consider joining! We would love to count someone of your talent among our ranks.

As a member of the French Wine Society, you will be privy to two live webinars a month via our Continuing Education Program. These seminars are recorded for play on demand and cover a range of topics from general wine subjects to specific French AOCs plus food and wine pairing. If you are not currently a member, you can keep your education in motion by joining today at www.frenchwinesociety.org.

And do sign up for the French Wine Society newsletter. This will keep you informed of all French Wine Society educational offerings. We encourage you to stay tuned and stay involved.

Once again, we commend your achievement and your on-going desire to continue with your professional development. The world of wine is constantly changing, but you are keeping current. Chapeau!

Sincerely,

Julien Camus, President
