UNITED KINGDOM

Lena Inger

Lena began her career as a technical writer and went on to become a trainer with a multinational corporation and finally training manager for a large public organisation. She then went to live abroad for five years with her husband and children and during that time developed a passion for wine.

On her return to the UK in 1982 she began teaching people about wine and is very happy to be able to say that she still enjoys it.

She co-founded (with Sandy Leckie) The Wine Education Service Limited, which with over 2,000 students a year is now the UK's biggest providers of wine courses for consumers. She is part of the management team and tutors introductory, intermediate-and advanced level courses.

She also tutors tastings for wine clubs and corporate clients, is a judge at the International Wine Challenge, and particularly enjoys acting as a guide for wine tours in Europe.

Sandy Leckie

Sandy's first career was as a training and development manager in a multinational corporation. In 1994, feeling the need for a change of direction, he harnessed a life-long passion for wine to launch a second career as a wine educator.

The wine school, which Sandy now manages with fellow AWE members, Lena Inger and Vivienne Franks, is one of the biggest of its kind in the country. Trading as The Wine Education Service Limited, it runs a wide ranges of courses and events for wine lovers. Courses are designed to suit all levels of knowledge and are delivered in a relaxed and friendly atmosphere. There are six venues in London and regional centres in Aberdeen, Birmingham, Edinburgh and Manchester. In addition, there are wine workshops, tutored wine tastings, wine tours and holidays. The Wine

Education Service can specifically tailor-make any event for a client.

In his own capacity, Sandy runs the tasting programme at the Institut Francais du Royaume Uni.

He also tutors wine tastings for private clients and wine clubs. Alsace, Burgundy, Rhône, Languedoc, California, New Zealand and vertical tastings of Château de Beaucastel, Château Cissac, Mas de Daumas Gassac and Château Musar are some of his specialities.

Sandy joined the Association of Wine Educators in 1997 and is a former Treasurer and Council Member. He is a judge at the International Wine Challenge.

Gareth Morgan

Dr Gareth Morgan is director of Oinoudidasko Wine Education based in York in the north of England. He provides a wide range of wine education events for trade and consumer groups, Saturday wine schools, and private wine tastings. He also holds an academic post at Sheffield Hallam University where he is closely involved in the Wine Studies Unit.

UNITED KINGDOM

Antony Moss

Since 2004, Antony Moss has worked for the Wine and Spirits education trust, where he currently occupies the position as Research and Development Director. He is responsible for ensuring that WSET qualifications are up-to-date and continue to meet the needs of the global wine and spirits industries. He carries out regular consultation with industries, training providers and students, and oversees updates to syllabuses, study materials and tutor support resources. Current projects include building a wine educator program that can be used to train new WSET educators worldwide, and working with the Association de la Sommellerie Internationale to help develop a common standard for training professional sommeliers.

Alastair Peebles

Alastair Peebles, after entering the wine trade in 1968, became director of Berry Bros and Rudd Ltd in 1977. In 1990, he made a seven part wine series and two series of cooking programmes with Prue Leith for BBC2. In 2006, he and his wife started the Devon Wine School, offering WSET Courses and wine tastings.

Angela Reddin

Angela is a London based, freelance Wine Educator, writer and consultant, also an international Wine Judge and Panel Chair. Accredited Tutor for WSET Diploma, Wines of the Rhone and Wines of Burgundy. Other areas of expertise include the wines of Australia and New Zealand. Angela is also keenly interested in all aspects of Wine Growing and Wine Making, especially with regard to organic, biodynamic and sustainable practices. Angela presents and lectures to all levels of trade and consumer.

Anthony Stockbridge

For the last 20 years, Anthony Stockbridge has been the owner of a top rate training company delivering courses to both intermediate and advanced WSET qualifications. He has a dedicated wine training facility at Ivory House but also runs courses for corporate clients at their own premises. Increasingly over the past three years, he has become involved in presenting wines to wine clubs and hosting food and wine dinners for restaurants and giving advice on wine listings. Another activity is accompanying clients to France to advise on wine purchases for clubs and restaurants.
